Fixed-rate proposal for Jeff Lepow's two Houston locations

Jeff, this is an apples-to-apples comparison against your other broker's fixed-rate options. It uses your two Houston locations and your 220,000 kWh per year estimate, then lays out the 24 month, 36 month, and 60 month pricing side by side so the decision is easy to review.

RECOMMENDED OPTION

ENGIE 36 months

$0.06760 / kWh all-in

This is the best balance of price and term length. The ENGIE 24 month quote is a touch lower, but the 36 month option gives you a longer lock with only a small step up in rate.

Fully fixed pricing, no congestion pass-through

The grid below keeps the supplier, term, and rate together. ENGIE is highlighted because it is the best overall choice here, especially on the 36 month option. Total annual spend is estimated at 220,000 kWh per year and will move up or down with the actual load.

RECOMMENDED PICK ENGIE 36 months	RATE $0.06760 / kWh	ESTIMATED ANNUAL ENERGY COST ~$14,872 / yr	WHY IT WINS Good rate, longer lock, cleaner renewal timing.

STRAIGHT ANSWER

ENGIE 24 months is slightly cheaper, but 36 months is the better recommendation.

If you want the absolute lowest quoted rate on paper, ENGIE 24 months comes in lower at $0.06612. If you want the better business decision, the 36 month ENGIE option is the stronger choice because it holds a competitive rate longer and avoids having to renegotiate again too soon.
